DETAILED ACTION

1. The examiner acknowledges applicant's cancellation of claims 1-12 and the inclusion of new claims 13-30 filed on 18 June 2007.

Election/Restrictions

2. Applicant's election with traverse of Invention I in the a telephone conversation on 6 February 2007 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the inventions shown in the figures are connected in design, operation, and have common features, discussed in applicant's remarks filed on 18 June 2007. This is not found persuasive because the non-elected Invention II includes the special technical feature being the distinction between the two inventions. The special technical feature is that the first and second torsion units of Invention II are formed with first and second openings, respectively, for alignment with the threaded opening of the follower. Since applicant cancelled claims 1-12, claims 20, 21, 29, and 30 of the newly submitted claims are drawn to the non-elected Invention II (Figures 7-10) <sup>and b</sup> are withdrawn from <sub>^</sub> consideration.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claim 13 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Specifically, lines 26-29 of the claim, it is unclear what side of the lock the "means for selectively controlling the coupling member" engages because of the phrase "said other side." For examination purposes, it will be considered that the means for selectively controlling the coupling member is on at least one side of the lock until further clarification from applicant.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

6. Claims 13 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hinz (EP 0 537 531 A1).

7. In regards to claims 13 and 22 (as best understood), Hinz discloses a door lock (Figure 1) having first 1" and second 1' opposite sides including a bolt 3, a follower 8 for moving the bolt (Figure 1) with the follower having first and second opposite ends (as shown in the figure below) presented towards the first and second sides respectively of the lock (Figure 2) and being formed with a threaded opening (as shown in figure below, and lines 116-118 of the computer generated translation) that is accessible from each end of the follower (Figure 2). Hinz further discloses first 16" and second 16' torsion units at the first and second sides respectively (Figure 6) of the lock and turnably mounted in the first and second ends respectively of the follower (Figure 6), and first 23a and second 23b movable coupling members at the first and second sides respectively of the lock (Figure 2), which are selectively controllable to couple force

8. Hinz also discloses a selecting member 20 that can be installed in the lock on one of the first and second sides of the lock by engaging the threaded opening of the follower from the first or second end of the follower (Lines 93-113 of the computer generated translation), such that when the selecting member is installed on the first side the selecting member retains the first torsion unit against turning relative to the follower and permits the second torsion unit to turn relative to the follower (Lines 89-113 of the computer generated translation), and when the selecting member is installed on the second side the selecting member retains the second torsion unit against turning relative to the follower (apparent from Figures 1 and 2). Hinz discloses a means for selectively controlling the coupling member 13, 9 that selectively connects force transmission from the torsion unit to at least one side of the lock (Lines 71-76 and Lines 102-113).

Allowable Subject Matter

9. Claims 14-19 and 23-28 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

10. Applicant's arguments with respect to the rejection of claims 7-11 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Errani in view of Raatikainen have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection and the inclusion of new claims 13-30.

11. The examiner acknowledges applicant's amendment to the specification removing references to the claims as set forth in the previous office action.

Conclusion

12. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 3676

In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
